

The image shows the front cover of an antique book. The cover is bound in a brown, leather-like material. It features an elaborate gold-tooled border consisting of multiple rectangular frames. The innermost frame is a simple double-line border. The next frame out is a wider band containing a repeating chain-link or oval pattern. The outermost frame is another double-line border. The corners of the cover are reinforced with a dark, possibly velvet or silk, material, which is visible on the left side where the cover is slightly worn. A small, rectangular, black label with a gold-tooled border is pasted onto the right side of the cover. The label contains the title 'CITY MAP BOOK' in gold, serif, all-caps lettering. The text is arranged in two lines: 'CITY' on the top line and 'MAP BOOK' on the bottom line. The cover shows signs of age, including some wear and tear, particularly along the edges and in the bottom right corner where the brown material is peeling away, revealing a lighter, fibrous underlayer.
